3. Approval of January 25 Meeting Minutes. Jim Harbertson made a motion to approve the January 25 meeting minutes. Natalie Collins second, minutes were approved.
4. New Business
 - a. New CAWG Unified LLC Managing Member: Gregg Hibbits, Grapevine Capital Partners. Natalie Collins introduced and welcomed Gregg to our group! CAWG approved his appointment to the LLC Managing Committee during the last CAWG board meeting on Wednesday, March 13.
 - b. Program Development Committee Co-Chair (to join Devin Parr). Natalie Collins provided an update on the status of the Program Development Committee Co-Chair. She stated that we will be unfortunately removing Clint Nelson from this list because he has just taken a job outside of the state. Eva Bertran is the second person on our list to reach out to, then Alison Crowe. They both would be a good option. Alison has been on the committee for over 10 years. The question is, who would be the best fit with Devin? Both would be an excellent fit.
 - i. Further Discussion:
 1. Jim Harbertson stated that we do not have an Enology and Viticulture paired together as a co-chair. However, this may not be an issue. This person is to lead the discussion in both the in-person and virtual. If you have a strong viticulture sub-committee, then it will not be an issue.
 2. Tom Collins would slightly lean towards Alison Crowe since she has been on the committee for a longer period of time. She is motivated and will keep on top of the process to complete the program in a timely manner.
 3. Mike Boer moved to extend an invitation to Eva Bertran first and if she declines, we extend an invitation to Alison Crowe. Jim Harbertson second, motion was approved.

c. Keynote Speaker Discussion. Natalie Collins stated that no decision needs to be made today, but that we need to keep this in front of our mind. A list of the past keynote speakers and the two names that were discussed during our last call were provided. They are potentially good names to move forward with and look at adding in any additional names. We can explore different ideas other than the interview style, which we have not done for the past two years.

- i. Do we want to add Dusty Baker back on the list? He has a different schedule, as he is semi-retired now. He is now doing PR with the San Francisco Giants.
- ii. What are we looking to get out of the lunch and the speaker? Do we want someone who is industry focused or someone who is entertaining and a draw. Getting people there to the luncheon is the goal.
- iii. We like the feel-good speakers, but because of where the wine industry is right now, we may want more serious.
- iv. For the next meeting, look at any other names that come to the surface. Send them to Jenny Devine and Natalie Collins to gather.

d. State of the Industry Line-Up & 4th Speaker. Brief Discussion. We still have time, but it will be helpful to move the timeline a bit earlier with our speakers, and to start thinking about the 4th speaker.

5. Old Business.

a. Final 2024 Unified Registration Update. Dan Howard provided the final registration update to the committee. He stated that were over by 228 in paid registrations from 2023. It is a solid number upward. We had the right people at the show, and everyone seemed happy.

SPEAKER IDEAS

With where the wine industry currently is, it is important for us to focus on a speaker within our own industry. A “celebrity” within the wine industry, who would have a positive message and draw for attendance. A few suggestions discussed during our last meeting included:

- Chuck Wagner, Caymus Vineyards
- Wayne Donaldson, Deutsch Family Wine & Spirits
- Dusty Baker

Bio's for each individual are provided on the following pages.*

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Chuck Wagner, Caymus Vineyards

Chuck Wagner was born into a family of farmers and winemakers with deep roots in Napa Valley. He was just 19 when he started Caymus Vineyards with his late parents, Charlie and Lorna, and they spent many wonderful years working side-by-side.

After fifty harvests, Chuck continues to make two renowned Cabernet Sauvignons, Caymus Napa Valley and Caymus Special Selection. Several years ago, he launched Bonanza, a California Cabernet Sauvignon that reflects a spirit of discovery and celebrates good wine as a simple pleasure of life. As the Wagners began farming and making wine in Suisun Valley, Chuck also introduced Caymus-Suisun Grand Durif, one of the family two flagship wines under the Caymus-Suisun label.

Chuck has steered his family's business from the very beginning to the present day, helping it adapt to an ever-changing and challenging landscape. He has been recognized for his winemaking and industry leadership, and all the while, maintains deep humility and an appreciation for family and great wine – wherever it may come from – and the connections between the two.

Dusty Baker, retired baseball player

A legend in baseball, Dusty Baker is the only a 3-time Major League Baseball Manager of the year in Major League history, a former All-Star as a player, and a former Marine. Dusty is a bilingual speaker (English & Spanish) who talks about leadership, teamwork, motivation, and success.

In 2022, Dusty became the 12th manager in MLB history to win 2,000 games. He is the only coach in MLB history to lead five teams to the post-season, the San Francisco Giants, the Chicago Cubs, the Cincinnati Reds, the Washington Nationals, and the Houston Astros.

Drafted by the Atlanta Braves in the 1967 amateur draft out of Del Campo High School near Sacramento, CA, Dusty Baker began his professional baseball career as an outfielder for the Braves in 1968. After spending sixteen full seasons with the Atlanta Braves, Los Angeles Dodgers, as well as a short tenure with the San Francisco Giants and Oakland Athletics, Baker finished his prosperous career as a player with .278 batting average, 242 home runs, and 1,013 runs batted in.

Baker's coaching career started with his former Dodger arch-rival: the San Francisco Giants. Baker began his coaching career as a first base coach for the San Francisco Giants in 1988, and then spent the following four years (1989-1992) as the hitting coach before taking over as manager in 1993. In his very first year as Giants manager, he won the N.L. Manager of the Year award, leading the team to a 103-59 record, which was the second-best record in baseball that year (behind the 104-58 Atlanta Braves). His Giants went on to win division titles in 1997 and again in 2000 after which Baker was honored as Manager of the Year for both years. In 2002 the Giants gained the Wild-Card berth and from there advanced to the World Series where they lost in seven games to the Anaheim Angels.

In 2003 Baker left the Giants to join the Chicago Cubs, where he made a major impact in his first season as manager. With the help of an impressive pitching staff and big gun batters such as Sammy Sosa and Moises Alou, the Chicago Cubs were able to claim their first divisional title in over a decade.

In 2004, the team was involved in a heated wild card chase with the Houston Astros but fell out of contention near the season's end. In the subsequent season, the Cubs lost several of their key players, most notably ace pitchers Mark Prior and Kerry Wood, to injuries. The team finished the season with a 79-83 record, marking the first time in three years that the Cubs finished with a losing record. Baker left the Cubs following their 2006 season and subsequently spends time as an analyst for ESPN.

Baker's hobbies include hunting and fishing and he is fluent in Spanish. He founded the Dusty Baker International Academy of Baseball in Sacramento and is supportive of many local charitable organizations.
